Projection through Apple TV

- In order to project you need and Apple TV
- The teacher has an iPad that can only project on the classroom projector through Apple TV
- The students all have an iPad as well, but cannot project on the screen

Reason Why I Can't Project..

- Can only project Using Apple TV – which has to be connected to a TV with HDMI
- You can project it to a computer (Mac or PC), but the IT support has to set it up (see photo)

Applications

- Many applications on the iTunes App store market
- Most are free, some cost a small fee to download
- School Districts have Applications already downloaded for the students, and the students can download anything as well.

Student Applications

- There are a variety, anything that the student can download they can.

Examples:

- Google Earth - Map Activities
- Safari for Web browsing
- iMovie to make multi-media presentations
- Pages and Keynote for notes

famous museum and library. The museum was a temple dedicated to the Muses, the Greek goddesses of arts and sciences. It contained art galleries, a zoo, botanical gardens, and even a dining hall. The museum was an institute of advanced study.

The Alexandrian Library stood nearby. Its collection of half a million papyrus scrolls included many of the masterpieces of ancient literature. As the first true research library in the world, it helped promote the work of a gifted group of scholars. These scholars greatly respected the earlier works of classical literature and learning. They produced commentaries that explained these works.

Science and Technology

ellenistic scholars, particularly those in Alexandria, reserved Greek and Egyptian learning in the sciences. until the scientific advances of the 16th and 17th centuries, Alexandrian scholars provided most of the scientific knowledge available to the West.

Astronomy Alexandria's museum contained a small observatory in which astronomers could study the planets and stars. One astronomer, Aristarchus (AR•ih•STAIR•kuhs) of Samos, reached two significant scientific conclusions. In one, he estimated that the Sun was at least 300 times larger than Earth. Although he greatly underestimated the Sun's true size, Aristarchus disproved the widely held belief that the Sun was smaller than Greece. In another conclusion, he proposed that Earth and the other planets revolve around the Sun. Unfortunately for science, other astronomers refused to support Aristarchus' theory. In the second century A.D., Alexandria's last renowned astronomer, Ptolemy, incorrectly placed Earth at the center of the solar system. Astronomers accepted this view for the next 14 centuries.
